

Renée K. Jensen, FACHE
Chief Executive Officer

With over two decades of healthcare leadership in Washington State and strong ties to the Skykomish Valley community, Renée Jensen currently serves as the Chief Executive Officer & Superintendent at Snoqualmie Valley Health in King County, Washington. Jensen is also the co-owner of Jensen2 Solutions providing support to executives and business owners seeking creative, innovative solutions to leadership and business challenges. Prior to her position at SVH she served as Senior Vice President and Chief Administrative Officer with EvergreenHealth. Previously, Jensen led Summit Pacific Medical Center in Grays Harbor County for more than ten years as their Chief Executive Officer and Superintendent, while executing a successful financial turnaround, construction of a brand-new hospital, new medical clinic and implementing framework for a community-focused wellness center.

Jensen is known as an innovative, transparent leader who engages with the community to bring transformational healthcare to the communities she serves. She is a member of the Washington State Hospital Association strategic planning and board governance committees, the Vice Chair of the Association of Washington Public Hospital Districts, the Chair of the Rural Health Enterprise for the Washington State Rural Collaborative. She is actively involved in many community-based service organizations and enjoys spending her free time in the great outdoors with her family.
