

Jon Burroughs, JD, MD, MBA

Dr. Jon Burroughs is currently embarking upon his sixth professional career having been a professional pianist, mountain climbing guide/hiking guide author, emergency physician, healthcare administrator, healthcare administrative expert and consultant, and now finally a healthcare attorney. He is a healthcare system expert and has testified in over 230 legal cases, written six healthcare administrative books (two of which were given national awards by the American College of Healthcare Executives), and serves on the national faculties of the American College of Healthcare Administration, the American Association for Physician Leadership, and the National Association Medical Staff Services. His goal is to help make healthcare a little safer and more oriented to the health and wellbeing of the public at large.
